Dear Mac:

Please pardon my delay in answering your letter, but I have been all this time getting the correct information on filing income tax returns.

Now first of all, if you will be back here before March 15th, I would advise you to wait until your return to file. You have until March 15th and I could explain the different procedures to you better if I was talking to you.

The simplest thing to do would be to take this form I am enclosing which tells how much money I paid you, put the one you get from The Yankees with it, and if you do not get one in Cuba, write a letter saying how much salary you have received in Cuba (have it notarized), and mail them all to The Collector of Internal Revenue Third District New York City. That office will figure on the basis of these statements whether they owe you or you owe them. Do they withhold taxes from your salary in Cuba? If not you will be required to pay it.

Write me right back and let me know if you will return here before March 15th, or send these forms as I suggested to The Collector of Internal Revenue New York City.

I hope you are felling good and doing well. Willie Wells returned to Newark last week.

Sincerely Yours
